

Table of contents

Preface	11
Introduction	13
Chapter One
The macrosocial determinants of the sense of national identity in the borderland	20
1.1. Nations and ethnicity in the new Europe	20
1.1.1. The positioning of local communities in the global system	28
1.2. Borderland – terminological explanations	32
1.2.1. Borderland as a place of shaping human identity	38
1.3. The description of the areas influencing the sense of identity and identity behaviours of the Polish national minority in the Republic of Belarus	41
1.3.1. The historical fate of the Polish national minority in Belarus	44
1.3.2. The cultural – linguistic, religious, educational – distinctiveness of the Polish national minority in Belarus	59
1.3.3. The awareness of the distinctiveness of a minority group	83
1.3.4. Economic factors	92
1.3.5. The social aspirations of Poles living in Belarus	97
1.3.6. The political, ideological, social and economic transformations in Belarus in the macroregional context	99
1.4. The description of the areas influencing the sense of identity and identity behaviours of the Polish national minority in Ukraine	105
1.4.1. The historical fate of the Polish national minority in Ukraine	108

1.4.2. The cultural – linguistic, religious, educational – distinctiveness of the Polish national minority in Ukraine	125
1.4.3. The awareness of the distinctiveness of a minority group	150
1.4.4. Economic factors	157
1.4.5. The social aspirations of Poles living in Ukraine	161
1.4.6. The political, ideological, social, and economic transformations in Ukraine in the macroregional context	164
1.5. The description of the areas influencing the sense of identity and identity behaviours of the Polish national minority in Zaolzie, Czech Republic	169
1.5.1. The historical fate of the Polish national minority in Zaolzie	171
1.5.2. The cultural – linguistic, religious, educational – distinctiveness of the Polish national minority in Zaolzie	194
1.5.3. The awareness of the distinctiveness of a minority group	211
1.5.4. Economic factors	218
1.5.5. The social aspirations of Poles living in Zaolzie	223
1.5.6. The political, ideological, social, and economic transformations in the Czech Republic in the macroregional context	225
Conclusions	228

Chapter Two

Social conditions of interaction in multicultural communities	238
2.1. Ethnic relations on borders	238
2.1.1. Ethnic relations in the perspective of Robert E. Park and Ernest W. Burgess	239
2.1.2. From the concept of assimilation to the concept of ethnic pluralism	241
2.2. The nature of interaction – social relations on the borderlands	252
2.2.1. Ethnic aspects of minority–majority relations	254

2.2.2. US – OTHERS/THEM conflicts	258
2.3. The institutional dimension of experiences on the frontier	263
2.3.1. The role of family in the creation and transmission of cultural patterns	270
2.3.2. The school as a place where a young person develops	276
2.3.3. Extracurricular forms of gaining multicultural and intercultural experiences	281
Conclusions	287

Chapter Three

The transformation of the identity model in multicultural societies

3.1. Identity and the sense of identity	293
3.2. The individual and collective dimension of identity	299
3.3. National identity	304
3.4. From ethnic identity to multidimensional identity	308
3.5. The tasks of intercultural education in shaping an open-minded individual	315
Conclusions	321

Chapter Four

The methodological issues of own research

4.1. The objectives, subject, and scope of the research	326
4.1. Research questions and hypotheses	333
4.2. The research procedure	338
4.3. The selection of the study group and the organisation of the research	339

Chapter Five

The sense of identity in young people and its determinants – the findings of the research conducted among students from schools with the Polish language instruction in Belarus, Ukraine, and Czechia

5.1. Young people's perception of themselves and their own behaviour	342
5.1.1. The identification profiles of the examined students	343

5.1.2. The criteria for being Polish	353
5.1.3. The motherland and homeland of the surveyed youth	359
5.1.4. The students' mother tongue	364
5.1.5. Feelings induced by the sense of being Polish and belonging to a national group	367
Conclusions	369
5.2. Behaviours exhibited by the youth in the regional context	371
5.2.1. The bond between young people and their region and the minority group	372
5.2.2. The language of daily interactions among the youth	377
Conclusions	383
5.3. Young people's involvement in the social, educational and religious life of the minority and majority group and the self-assessment of their activity	384
5.3.1. The evaluation of social organizations' activities for the purpose of integration	391
Conclusions	393
5.4. Perceiving oneself as Europeans and declared behaviours	394
5.4.1. Students' experiences related to studying and staying abroad	395
5.4.2. The frequency and purposes of stays in other countries	398
5.4.3. Students' knowledge of foreign languages	401
5.4.4. Young people's life plans for future and their content	403
Conclusions	410
5.5. Identity behaviours exhibited by the respondents in the family sphere	411
5.5.1. Communication languages in the surveyed students' families	413
5.5.2. Experiences related to reading press and using media acquired within the family	418
5.5.3. The family transmission of knowledge about the history of Poland, the country of residence and European countries	422
5.5.4. Young people's preferences regarding the nationality and religion of their future life partner	429

5.5.5. The respondents' declarations concerning their willingness to send children to schools with Polish as the language of instruction	432
Conclusions	434
5.6. Experiences related to the functioning of a school declared by young people	435
5.6.1. The language of communication among students at school – with teachers and with peers	437
5.6.2. Actions taken by schools for the purpose of integration	440
5.6.3. Conveying knowledge about the culture of Poland, Czechia and European countries at school	442
Conclusions	447
5.7. Religion as an identifying value	448
5.7.1. Being a Catholic as an indicator of Polishness	454
5.7.2. The assessment of the influence of the Church on the national identity of the youth	456
Conclusions	459
5.8. Identity behaviours exhibited by the respondents in the sphere of culture	461
5.8.1. The declarations of knowledge of the history and culture of the country of residence and Europe, the problems faced by inhabitants and its self-assessment	463
5.8.2. The sources of knowledge about culture	469
Conclusions	473
5.9. The attitude towards their own (people) declared by the youth ...	475
5.9.1. The respondents' bonds with social groups	476
5.9.2. Feelings associated with belonging to a group	478
5.9.3. The differences between "our own" and "strangers" perceived by the students	482
Conclusions	486
5.10. Behaviours towards Others exhibited by the youth	487
5.10.1. The nationality of the colleagues of the surveyed students	488
5.10.2. The assessment of mutual contacts between the minority and the majority	491

5.10.3. Nationality-based acts of dislike or discrimination perceived by the respondents	497
5.10.4. Ethnic stereotypes and the respondents' tendency to favour their own minority group	500
Conclusions	506
Summary	508
Source literature	518
List of maps	569
List of figures	569
List of pictures	569
List of tables	570
Appendix	574
Name index	583
Subject index	590